

International Symposium on Frontier of Superconductivity Research (III)

Neutron Scattering on Unconventional Superconductors

Beijing, China, October 24 -27, 2013

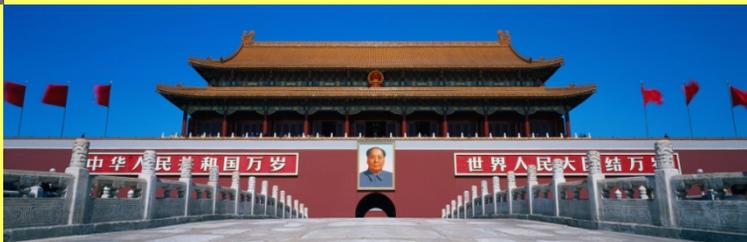

The National Lab for Superconductivity at the Institute of Physics, Chinese Academy of Sciences, Beijing, is a national premier base for superconductivity research in China and an important hub for academic exchange among domestic and foreign scholars in this field. Aiming to strengthen international scientific exchanges and collaborations, the National Lab for Superconductivity has decided to hold "International Symposium on Frontier of Superconductivity Research" once a year.

This third symposium in 2013 will focus on "Neutron Scattering on Unconventional Superconductors". Leading experts will provide overview, personal experience, latest results and future perspectives on Neutron Scattering studies of unconventional superconductors, including cuprate superconductors, iron-based superconductors and other unconventional superconductors. We hope to make the Symposium informative, stimulating and fruitful, particularly to young scientists and graduate students.
